Excerpt: .half-inches on it, because we have to show five yards. Divide the first into three parts: it shows feet. Number and complete as in the figure. Note.--The dotted lines shown in the figures are the lines of construction for dividing a line by similar triangles, as explained in Part I. il. Examples of other scales similar to those explained f Inch. Note.--The scale is broken off here, as there is no room to show the next foot, etc. e. The line A B represents one foot nine inches; produce it to show four feet three inches. The first consider ration is, how much of the line A B represents one foot, if A B represents one foot nine inches--that is, twentyone inches. If A B is divided into seven equal parts, then each part represents three inches, and four such parts twelve inches or one...
